This 15,000 sf one story classroom building for the University of California Davis Campus provides much needed mid-size classroom space. The building consists of 3 lecture halls and 2 classrooms arranged off of a central lobby. The three lecture halls are wedge shaped with sloping floors for ideal view lines and acoustics and will seat 174, 187, and 282 students respectively. The flat floored classrooms will accommodate 40 students each. The lobby is curved to follow the natural form of the 3 lecture halls and includes a covered exterior canopy with courtyard. The facility will also include men’s and women’s restrooms and interior mechanical, electrical, and telecommunication rooms as well as a professor’s preparation room with storage and a janitor’s room.

This project received the DBIA Achievement Award for 2007
